ABOUT NASCO & ECL

Since 1968, North American Students of Cooperation (NASCO) has been working with students, worker-owners, activists, and community members who are interested in applying cooperative principles to meet their needs and fulfill their various missions. NASCO organizes and educates affordable group equity co-ops and their members for the purpose of promoting a community oriented cooperative movement.

NASCO's Emerging Co-op Leaders Program (ECL) is heralded as one of the most significant training and networking opportunities available to leaders in the cooperative movement. This May 3-6, NASCO will bring together a group of emerging leaders from all parts of the cooperative movement to learn more about the breadth and depth of cooperatives and cooperation. Participants will be drawn from all sectors, ranging from agricultural and housing co-ops to consumer co-ops and credit unions. Whether employees, directors, members, managers, or students, participants will gain a better understanding of the history, challenges, trends and opportunities in today's cooperative movement.

Since 2005, NASCO's ECL has been a unique opportunity for cooperative leaders to network, to strategize with each other about what makes cooperatives and credit unions successful, and to work on building the modern cooperative movement worldwide.
