

To the person who spoke: What was it like to have the floor completely? How is this different from other experiences you've had? What were you aware of as you were speaking (or what did you notice)?

To the person who listened: What was it like to give the floor completely? How is this different from other experiences you've had? What were you aware of as you were listening (or what did you notice)?

To the person who spoke: What was it like to have the floor completely? How is this different from other experiences you've had? What were you aware of as you were speaking (or what did you notice)?

To the person who listened: What was it like to give the floor completely? How is this different from other experiences you've had? What were you aware of as you were listening (or what did you notice)?

To the person who spoke: What was it like to have the floor completely? How is this different from other experiences you've had? What were you aware of as you were speaking (or what did you notice)?

To the person who listened: What was it like to give the floor completely? How is this different from other experiences you've had? What were you aware of as you were listening (or what did you notice)?

To the person who spoke: What was it like to have the floor completely? How is this different from other experiences you've had? What were you aware of as you were speaking (or what did you notice)?

To the person who listened: What was it like to give the floor completely? How is this different from other experiences you've had? What were you aware of as you were listening (or what did you notice)?

To the person who spoke: What was it like to have the floor completely? How is this different from other experiences you've had? What were you aware of as you were speaking (or what did you notice)?

To the person who listened: What was it like to give the floor completely? How is this different from other experiences you've had? What were you aware of as you were listening (or what did you notice)?

To the person who spoke: What was it like to have the floor completely? How is this different from other experiences you've had? What were you aware of as you were speaking (or what did you notice)?

To the person who listened: What was it like to give the floor completely? How is this different from other experiences you've had? What were you aware of as you were listening (or what did you notice)?